BCAS Analysis Of Changes in Tax Laws of India

1st February, 2022 will mark a dawn in the economy from the shadows of COVID Era. The investors and the business houses are anticipating a growth-centric expansionary budget. The Honourable Finance Minister may seek to balance growth and consolidation. On-track vaccination, rollout of booster shots, and gradual winning of COVID - 19 are likely to allow service sector activities to return to pre-pandemic levels.

Public spending will need to take the wheel initially, with the private sector participation to be drawn in on better demand visibility, deleveraging, healthier balance sheets, and benefits from accelerated formalization. Corporate tax payers as well as businessmen too are hopeful of several concessions which will help them to tide over the difficult times that they are facing because of the devastation caused by the pandemic. We wait with bated breath for the FM to unveil the Budget.

To analyse the Budget 2022, BCAS this year too shall release it's publication
